SAN SIMON, Calif., Aug. 10.— This W. R. Hearst ranch, running 50 miles along the Pacific and back over two mountain ranges, contains 240,000 acres, and it is too small to be seen on a fairly big Mercator projection.
It's a big world.

Going west in a straight line over the Pacific, you would land at Yokohama, and find the intelligent Japanese building fast cruisers, and smiling politely.

Going east across this continent and out on the Atlantic, you would overtake the Zeppelin, bound east, on a trip around the world. At this time, 7:15 p. m., eastern standard, the giant dirigible is about 800 miles east of New York.

W. R. Hearst, whose enterprise and generosity made the round the world trip possible, gets frequent wireless messages here, giving news of the flight.

It is a progressive age, enabling a man to send an airmail on such an errand, and receiving hourly reports from men in the clouds, thousands of miles away.

TWENTY-TWO passengers, a crew of forty, a dog and a baby alligator make up the Zeppelin crew.
Why, you ask, should the dog and alligator make the trip, since they cannot possibly know where they are going?

The baby alligator might reply:
"Why are all you humans making your trip on the flying, whirling earth? You don't know where you are going, either."

Wiegand's wireless copy, lying beside this typewriter, at the edge of the Pacific, tells about breakfast and about passing at seventy-two miles an hour the British ship Tactica, making nineteen miles an hour.

Tactica blows her siren and fades out of sight.
Lady Drummond-Hay, whose wireless letters you will read, is up first among passengers. Women have energy, when they are interested. Read Euripides' "The Bacchae" and learn that men are nothing compared to women—when excited.

A GRAY-HAIRED, middle-aged German, Dr. Eckener, handles the controls when his ship meets "a wall of wind" or other trouble. He is the intellect of the ship. The passengers and crew are his freight and depend for safety on him.
Germany may well be proud of such a man. And this country may be glad that an American made the voyage possible.

CHARLES A. BRUNISSEN, who won second place in the Edison competition for "smartest American boy," says the test questions were foolish, particularly the question
"How would you move a heavy boulder if you were alone on a desert island without tools?"

The smartest boy, if they found him, might reply that on a desert island, without tools, he would not bother with heavy boulders. All test questions are more or less foolish in themselves. But they enable intelligent men to form an opinion of young intellects.

No test questions could have brought out Edison's ability. He was to make his reputation by answering questions that had never even been formulated.
How to transform flashing lightning into permanent, steady light; how to make more than one electrical message travel simultaneously over the same wire; how to print the human voice on wax or metal and make the surface, impressed, repeat the human talk.

Such are questions that genius answers. You cannot invent the questions, much less the answers. And some silent boy, unnoticed, unable, as Edison would have been unable to answer made-up test questions is the boy that will succeed Edison.

He may be sitting at your own table and called the dull boy of the family.
Newton who seemed a dull boy, could have won no Edison competition. And he had ten times the intellect of Edison, or any man since.

NEW YORK sends word that the Federal Reserve bank has raised the discount rate to six per cent. That will make the little speculators shiver, and give the big follows that waited too long a chance to get in.

Brokers loans went above six billions, breaking records. The Federal Reserve, organized to prevent panics, meets the situation by doing what it can to create a panic.

Money lenders will increase interest rates and the little fools will be squeezed.

In France, money is lent at 4 per cent. Ours is the land of usury.

GRAF ZEPPELIN LANDS AFTER RECORD FLIGHT

Aerial Greyhound Hops
To Friedrichshafen
In 55 Hours.

CROWD CHEERS

Dirigible Completes First Leg of Round-the-World Voyage.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Aug. 10.—Germany's aerial greyhound, the Graf Zeppelin, landed here at 1 o'clock this afternoon, (7 a. m., East Liverpool time), completing the first leg of her 21,700-mile round-the-world voyage.

Average Speed 80 Miles an Hour.
Speeding over the Atlantic with favorable winds behind her, the Graf traveled the 4,400 miles from Lakehurst, N. J., in 55 hours and 20 minutes. Her average speed was approximately 80 miles an hour although her speed at one time rose to 105 land miles an hour.

JUMP TO TOKIO ON WEDNESDAY

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Aug. 10.—(INS)—"Our world trip to Tokio will be resumed in about four days, but not before Wednesday," Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, told International News Service this afternoon. "The 'skin' of the ship is loosened somewhat. It must be tightened, but that is a task that can soon be finished."

When the ship sailed into view through the mist at 12:40 o'clock, she was escorted by a Dornier seaplane, which had risen from Lake Constance earlier in the morning to greet her.
The Dornier circled the Graf gracefully, dipping her wings in salutation and homage.

After her first appearance the Graf disappeared in the clouds but soon returned to view.
The cheering crowd about the landing field, held back by a force of soldiers and police, could see the passengers waving from the windows of the great forward cabin.

Passengers Are Thrilled.
As the Zeppelin soared slowly toward her hangar through a slight drizzle of rain, Dr. Hugo Eckener, the commander, pointed her nose down sharply. The landing ropes were dropped just before 1 o'clock and the trained land crew grasped them and pulled with a will. It was 1 o'clock, in strict accordance with Dr. Eckener's schedule, when the Graf touched her home ground.

The crowd went wild with enthusiasm as the ship came to a dead halt before her hangar.

Officials of the Zeppelin works were jubilant.

The 22 passengers were thrilled with elation.
"I foresee the time when we will be making week end trips across the Atlantic just to have Sunday dinner in Berlin," said Sir Hubert Wilkins, famous Arctic and Antarctic explorer, who was a passenger.

Landing Remarkable Maneuver.
The landing of the dirigible was a remarkable maneuver. Dr. Eckener, the commander, again demonstrated that he is the world's foremost air sailor.

Dr. Eckener reversed the ship's motors and hovered stationary over the field. Then he made a "straight down" landing. The crew, grasping the landing ropes, slowly turned the ship and fastened it to the carriages outside the hangar. Then as the crowd cheered and yelled "Hoch Eckener" the Graf was pushed into her hangar just at 1:20 o'clock, 20 minutes after she had touched ground.

"This trip was an amazing performance rivaling Col. Lindbergh's record flight from New York to Paris," declared Lady Hay, the only woman passenger, after she had left the cabin.
"There was no trouble at all on any part of the flight. We enjoyed every minute of it immensely."

This same sentiment was echoed by another passenger, Nelson Morris, of Chicago.

"It was certainly a flight of historic significance," Morris told International News Service. "It has given the best proof that the Zeppelin is the best means of trans-Atlantic transportation."

PANTAGES HINTS BLACKMAIL PLOT

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 10.—(INS).— Asserting he was the victim of a blackmail plot, Alexander Pantages, wealthy theatrical magnate, today declared the sensational charges lodged against him by Miss Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old University of Southern California co-ed and dancer.

The girl alleges she was attacked by Pantages when she went to his office to see him about booking an act in which she appeared with another girl and a man.

Although Pantages flatly denied her allegations, he was taken to the city jail and was booked on suspicion.

Northfield Dog Track Betting Gets Setback

Jury of Two Women and Two Men Return Verdict of Guilty in "Donation System" Case.

AKRON, O., Aug. 10.—(INS)—Dog race betting at the Northfield oval received a decided setback today when a jury of two women and ten men returned a verdict of guilty in the case of Edward Ingels, track employee, charged with selling tickets representing a scheme of chance.

In rendering their verdict, the jury decided that the "donation system," under which the tickets were sold at the dog track, was a gambling transaction.

Under the law, Ingels may be fined $5,500 and sentenced to 30 days in jail.
This is the maximum penalty.

Attorneys for the defense made no announcement today as to what procedure will be taken in the case of Henry Schumacher, who is held for trial on the same charges.

EATON MURDER SUSPECT HELD

Prosecutor Will Question Prisoner in New York.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 10.—(INS).— Governor Myers V. Cooper today is sued a requisition on the governor of New York asking the return to Eaton, Ohio, of Joseph Edelmann, 39, who is under arrest in New York City in connection with the double slaying of Dr.
H. Z. Silver, 55, and his wife, Lora, 58, at Eaton December 8, last.

EATON, O., Aug. 10.—(INS).—"Is he the right man?"
While the people of this farming community were asking that today.
County Prosecutor G. G. Jewel and Marshal William Armstrong were enroute to New York City where they will question Joseph Edelmann, 39, who told police there he was "involved" in the double-murder of Dr.
H. Z. Silver, 55, and his wife, Lora, 58.

The Silvers were shot to death in their fashionable home here December 8, last, when burglars were surprised in the act of looting their residence.

Dr. Silver and his wife were shot and killed and a subsequent investigation and man hunt did not reveal any trace of the slayers.

Authorities here are inclined to be somewhat skeptical of Edelmann's story. Edelmann told New York police that he beat the couple to death.
The Silvers were shot and killed.
Nevertheless, Jewel and Armstrong were armed with extradition papers

FOUR DETOURS ON COUNTY ROADS

Four detours exist on Columbiana county roads, according to the bulletin for August 10-17 issued at Columbus today by the State Highway department. These include Routes No. 7 and 30, the Youngstown-East Liverpool road, from the East Liverpool corporation limits to the Youngstown and Ohio River railroad sub-station.
The detour is six miles long and is reported in "good" condition.

Others detours are: The East Liverpool-East Palestine, Negley-Rogers and Lisbon-Columbiana road.

OHIOAN KILLED IN AUTO WRECK

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 10.—(INS).— Charles Roebing, 59, is dead here due to injuries which he received Wednesday when he lost control of his automobile and it plunged over an embankment.

Roebing was caught underneath the wreckage and was internally injured.

Woman Killed in Plane Crash.
ORRVILLE, O., Aug. 10.—(INS).— An attempted "climbing turn" was today blamed for the airplane crash at Riceland field in which Mrs. F. H.
Hammond, 23, of Barberton, was killed and her husband seriously injured.

who accompanied her son, Rex, a licensed pilot, from East Liverpool to Cincinnati by plane last Wednesday, was a passenger on the

Mrs. Harker left Cincinnati at 1:30 o'clock and arrived in Cleve-

HAGUE PARLEY BREAK AVERTED

THE HAGUE, Aug. 10.—(INS).— After a tense session featured by bitter exchanges between British Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden and Henri Cheron of France, the finance committee of The Hague conference on reparations adjustments adjourned this afternoon until Monday morning.

The adjournment saved the conference from an immediate breakdown, but even the most sanguine observers feel that unless either Britain or France undergoes a sudden and entirely unexpected change of heart, the conference faces inevitable collapse soon after its next convocation.

FRENCH FLIERS LEAVE MADRID and LeFevre are touring European capitals, arrived here at 12:20 p. m. today from Madrid.

Assolant, Rene LeFevre and Armand Lott, took off from here in their trans-Atlantic monoplane, "Yellow Bird," at 8:55 a. m. today, bound for Lisbon. The fliers are making a goodwill tour of Europe.

which is making a flight from Moscow

VETS VOTE NO INDORSEMENTS

No indorsements were voted by the advisory board of the Ex-Service Men's Political club at a meeting in the office of City Solicitor Frank Hoover, club president, in the Mar-fourth building, last night.

The board urged that war veterans and their families vote at the primaries.

Plans looking toward an active campaign in behalf of the soldier candidates at the general election were discussed. It is probable that an effort will be made to make the club a county-wide organization before the November balloting.

Financed on Reckless Driving Charge.
Carl Dutro, Ogden street, was fined

Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley to answer a charge of reckless driving with four in a seat. He was arrested in St.
Clair avenue last night.

"LOVE POTION" DEMONSTRATION IN SNOOK TRIAL

Jurors Bewildered by Explanation of Defense Chemist.

R. W. TERRY CALLED Gives His Opinion of Bacteriologist C. F.
Long.

BY JAMES L. KILGALLAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

COURTROOM, COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 10.—A "love potion" demonstration, similar to a laboratory test, was staged by the defense today at the trial of Dr. James Howard Snook for the murder of Theora Hix, co-ed beauty. When it was all over several of the jurors shook their heads in bewildered.

Robert W. Terry, chemist, bacteriologist and pharmacist, was on the stand at the time. He testified he had made laboratory experiments of the drugs which the state claims were found in the slain co-ed's stomach.
Terry said microscopic tests showed "no evidence of plant cell structure."

The demonstration over, Terry was asked regarding his opinion of the reputation of Chemist Charles F. Long, who made the analysis of Miss Hix's stomach. The witness hesitated and finally said Long bore "two reputations—one good and one not so good."

"Name one person who says Mr.
Long is not a good chemist," Prosecutor John J. Chester, Jr., challenged when he cross-examined the witness.
"I don't recall specifically who said his reputation was not so good," replied Terry. He was excused.

While the trial proceeded a pathetic scene was enacted on the floor below, in the prosecutor's office.
There, on a couch, sat Melvin T. Hix, elderly father of the slain girl, his head bowed in his hands.

He was weeping. Between sobs he recalled that today would have been his daughter's 25th birthday. Incidentally today is the thirty-first birthday of John J. Chester, Jr., who is prosecuting Snook for the murder of Miss Hix.

"This is a terrible experience I am going through," said Professor Hix.
"This is the unhappiest day in my life. And it could have been a happy day for me, had my daughter been allowed to live."

"This thing has almost killed her mother. She was unable to come with me to the courthouse today. She is ill and hasn't been out of the house in three days."

Snook's Love Letters in Records.
COURTROOM, COLUMBUS, O.,
Aug. 10.—(INS).—Dr. James H.
Snook's love letters to Theora Hix, to which he signed "Mabel," are in the records of the Snook trial and will be available to the jury when they consider Snook's fate. The letters were admitted last yesterday.

ECKENER NEPHEW HEIR TO FORTUNE

CLEVELAND, Aug. 10.—(INS).—
George Wolf, nephew of Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, is an heir to estates totaling approximately $600,000 marks in Dusseldorf and Berlin, Germany, it was learned here today.

The estates were left by Wolf's mother—a sister of Dr. Eckener—who died recently.

Wolf, an insurance salesman, lived here in moderate circumstances. He is married and the father of three children. His inheritance is expected to amount to more than $110,000.

Financed on Reckless Driving Charge.
Carl Dutro, Ogden street, was fined
$6 when he appeared today before Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley to answer a charge of reckless driving with

Election Board Chief Sees Light Vote In Primaries On Tuesday

Less Than Half of City's 8,500 Electors Will Cast Ballots, Notwithstanding Ten-man Fight for Republican Mayoralty and Two-Cornered Democratic Race, He Says.

APATHY IS MARKED IN CAMPAIGN; CANDIDATES NEAR END OF CANVASS

Contests for All But Two Offices on G. O. P.
Slate, While Followers of Jefferson Present Few Battles for Nominations for Municipal Ticket Places in November.

Approximately 4,000 of East Liverpool's 8,500 registered electors will go to the polls in next Tuesday's Republican and Democratic primaries, J. S. Hilbert, chief deputy of the Colum-biana county election board, predicted today.

Apathy on the part of the electorate indicates a light vote, the election board head said. Little interest has been noted until the last week, despite a ten-man fight for the Republican mayorality nomination and a two-cornered contest for the Democratic place, he pointed out.

Chief interest centers in the fight for the G. O. P. nomination for mayor. Another race which may prove interesting is that for the Republican nomination for city solicitor in which there are four candidates. Eighteen men seek the seven council places on the Republican ticket. Two candidates are in the field for the municipal court clerk.

The Democratic vote is expected to be very light, there being but two contests—the mayoralty and First ward councilman. Republicans are contesting for all offices except president of council and municipal judge.

Registrars on Duty.

The Democrats have two candidates for mayor, two for First ward councilman, one for Third ward councilman, three for councilmen-at-large and one for president of council. No one qualified for auditor, treasurer, solicitor, Second and Fourth ward council, municipal judge or clerk of municipal court.

New voters will be given their last opportunity to qualify for the primaries from 5 to 10 o'clock tonight when registrars will be on duty in the 23 precincts. Transfers will be issued from 5 to 9 o'clock Monday night as well as tonight.

ENFORCE BALLOT LAW, IS ORDER

Warning that violation of the law governing the conduct of balloting is punishable by fine or imprisonment, Chief Deputy J. S.
Hilbert and Clerk J. M. Moore today issued the following instructions to precinct judges in East Liverpool, Wellsville, Salem, East Palestine, Lisbon, Leetonia, Columbiana and Salineville regarding Tuesday's Republican and Democratic primaries:

"This is a primary election. The primary of each political party is as distinct and separate as if it were held on different dates, and electors of one political party have no voice as to candidates of the other party.

Ohio reads: "Whoever votes or attempts to vote at the primary election of a political party other than the political party to which he has affiliated, as defined by fifty dollars nor more than five hundred dollars or impris-

Pottery City

With Apologies to O. O. McIntyre

One of the present day explorers of the world, who does so by air planes, automobile, train and caravan is no other than Jackson Fleming, of New York City, a brother of Connellman Harry Fleming.

Jackson Fleming has just recently completed a flight of several days across the West India islands. What he then saw and observed with his fluency of historical racial moment will doubtless be incorporated in a series of magazine articles.

On occasions Fleming in the past has visited East Liverpool where his father, the late Isaac Fleming, lived for many years. His step-mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Fleming, is still a resident here, her home being in Jackson street.

Another brother, Richard Fleming, lives in California where he is engaged in the oil business.

The family home from Belfast, Ireland. The elder Mr. Fleming was for many years a traveling man.

For a time Jackson and Harry Fleming were located in Seattle, Washington, where the former attended the University of Washington and the latter attended the grade schools. The former later took several courses in other universities which culminated in the degree of a bachelor of science. During their stay in Seattle, they attended the largest Presbyterian church of America of which the Rev. Dr. Mark Matthews, a former moderator of the General Assembly of the denomination, is the pastor and with whom both are personally acquainted. He readily qualified as one of the great preachers now functioning in Presbyterian circles.

Mrs. Jackson Fleming, who has accompanied her husband on many of his world-wide trips is herself a public speaker of note. They together made trips into the interior of Russia following the World war. They were in Ireland during the period in which that country was trying to find itself.

For many years Jackson Fleming has been a contributor to the Asia magazine, a monthly publication that devotes its pages to descriptions of places visited and inspected by scholars who have the rare gift of analyzing conditions in them.

In the July number of this magazine, Fleming concludes the sixth of a series of articles he has written of a visit in Afghanistan, during which he crossed the lofty mountain range known as the Hindu-Kush. He crossed the country by airplane from the north to the southeast and then accomplished the unusual feat of traversing it from east to west, with a long dip to the south. He went from Kabul to Herat, despite the terrific headwinds, in a Juniors plane which route he averred took him "above dead cities to a city reborn."

In order to make this flight he was obliged to forego a three-day journey as the guest of Prince Inayatullah, to the famous ruins at Bamian where ancient Buddhas are carved in rock. King Amanullah was a visitor some time ago to European courts. He came back to the haunts of his youth with great ceremony which in places Fleming then there, was privileged to witness.

During his trips Fleming has taken pictures of places and persons met. These are included in his articles.

In one of the May numbers of the Literary Digest a long resume of the activities of Jackson Fleming was published with extracts of his publications thereon.

Before he finally branched out into his exploring departures, Fleming was active in newspaper-making and journalistic editing.

He communicates frequently with his brother, Harry, here. He has been known to send a card with a notification that he was just starting to fly across a mountain in some far off stretch of the world.

Harry Fleming is a regular reader of this magazine and thus gets the details of some of the happenings in his brothers' adventures.

James Heckathorn, long an East Liverpool potter and a member of General Garfield post, Sons of Veterans, remembers well a cyclone that passed over a section of Thompson place and extended with violence to East End.

"I was then employed in the old Wiley pottery which later became the Union pottery on the present site of the Litten Motors establishment, East Fifth and Walnut streets," he said. "The wind passed over the city during the night. I can recall seeing a portion of the roof over the Thompson pottery blown away and rafters protruding from houses against the hill above it on what is now Thompson place."

"As I remember the event it occurred about 1882. When the wind reached Boyce grove just off Pennsylvania avenue, west of Boyce street, it uprooted trees and lifted away a dance platform that was situated on the spot. It was perhaps the heaviest wind experienced in the city in my lifetime. Heckathorn now lives in St. Clair avenue in Maplewood.

William Graham, local contractor and former restaurant man, has just returned from a brief visit to Niagara Falls. He had previously visited the spot 40 years ago. He found the place considerably changed in that interim on the Canadian side. Even the American side was different. To return to any place after an absence of four decades is to recognize marked changes. And in this respect Niagara Falls, with all of its water and momentum, is no exception.

Dr. Leon Tucker, editor of "The Wonderful World," who along three years ago, visited several days' service at the First Baptist church of East Liverpool, is now engaged in holding a similar series in one of the churches of New York city. He is being assisted by another eminent divine. He has been traveling about the country almost constantly since being here.

NEW CHRYSLER MODELS HERE

Three Lines of Six-cylinder Cars Announced.

Walter P. Chrysler today announced the introduction of three new lines of 6-cylinder cars bearing his name. The three new Chryslers have been christened the "77," the "70" and the "66." The "77" has a price range from $1,595 to $1,795; the "70" from $1,245 to $1,395 and the "66," the first Six under $1,000 to bear the Chrysler name, from $985 to $1,065. Many noteworthy engineering advancements have been embodied in the new cars. Among the wholly original features introduced by the "77" and "70" are:

The multi-range gear shift, an entirely new principle in power control; the synchronized power system, engineered as a unit from radiator to rear axle; downdraft fuelization, a scientific advancement in carburetion; larger and more powerful engines, for increased speed and wider performance possibilities; Paraflex spring suspension and chimney-type rubber shock insulators, affording the last word in comfort; archtomic bodies, new in the science of their design and construction; new smartness and style that transcend all existing ideas and new interior luxury and elegance with true Chrysler finesse. These outstanding features are in every sense of the word original and make their appearance for the first time in the new "77" and "70."

The new 6-cylinder Chrysler "66" is built in six body styles, the royal sedan, the brougham, the business coupe, the royal coupe, the phaeton and the roadster. These are available in five new color combinations with upholstery to match. The bodies are long, low and fleet-looking. Lines and proportions, a special depressed molding, flanked on each side by delicate striping, emphasizes the long, rakish appearance of these bodies. A feature of all models is the new, scientifically tilted and internally operated non-glare windshield, of the ventilating type.

Study Candidates, Voters!

East Liverpool's preliminary campaign, featured by a ten-man contest for the Republican majority nomination, will close tonight, and the week-end will be devoted by the voters to a survey of the field, preparatory to going to the polls next Tuesday to select the party tickets for the November election.

Chief interest centers in the Republican balloting, for, with two exceptions, there are contests for every place on the ticket. On the Democratic side there are but two fights—the majority and First ward councilman. But voters have the privilege of writing the names of favorites who failed to file declarations, for a complete slate of city officials will be selected.

Thanks to the good judgment of the candidates, there has been no meddling in the campaign. The rivals for political preferment have devoted their time, in the main, to meeting electors on the streets, in their homes and through appeals by mail. But one candidate has made any speeches.

During the 60-day interim between filing day and the primaries, Ceramic City electors have been given an opportunity to become acquainted with the candidates and determine their fitness for public office. It is the voters' task to select the men best qualified for the places they seek.

Opponents of the primary have pointed out that the great fault of this system of nominating candidates for public office is that the minority governs the majority. In bygone years this has been true in East Liverpool, and predictions have been made that less than 50 per cent of the registered electors will exercise their right of suffrage next Tuesday. And the stay-at-home voters usually do most of the complaining on the day after the balloting.

Republicans and Democrats, study your candidates and what they stand for, then make up your mind to vote for the men who will make reputable municipal officials, if elected.

Exercise After Middle Life

Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, who was not without fame as a De Pauw university back in the 80's, questions the value of physical exercise to men who have passed middle life.

The senator, who is near 65, told newspaper men recently that he didn't believe that it was wise for men of his age, or near thereto, to seek to regain the vigor or activity of youth through physical exercise if they had not from youth followed some occupation which kept them more or less physically active. It is his belief that the man who has attained the half-century mark in the following of some sedentary pursuit takes a grave chance of suffering a breakdown of his mental or physical strength by going in for excessive exercise.

"When my friends urge me to take up golf," he remarked, "I tell them I am plenty of exercise by acting as pallbearer to my cow-penue pool-shooting friends who die of heart disease and overexertion."

Of course, the senator's remark regarding his activities as a pallbearer is a bit facetiousness on his part, but is there not a lot of sense in what he has to say? Is there not grave danger in excessive exercise or exercise too long prolonged for men who have reached fifty or gone beyond? Is it not only possible, but even probable, that the exercise in which they indulge will do them more harm than good?

Naturally, the case of the senior Mr. Rockefeller will be recalled by those who would incline to the negative view. But very few men are content to take three hours to play nine holes of golf and do nothing else for the remainder of the day. Against the Rockefeller instance, let the reader recall the many men of his own acquaintance who took up athletics in middle life to their undoing.

Protection Against Aircraft

It is fairly safe to say that if there is one class which, more than any other, is awake to the possibilities of the future; it is that class which writes insurance policies against any possible risk we may face. A risk against which they will not offer odds is almost inconceivable, but their regular policy forms naturally are written to provide protection against such hazards as may be anticipated in the natural line of events.

How closely they keep to the trend of the day is made evident by the fact that insurance policies are being offered against damage sustained from air machines.
They are putting out a policy which costs the insured $1.25 a thousand for a term of three years which gives protection against any loss the insured may suffer on his property as the result of the operation of an airplane over it. To illustrate: they will waive a property-owner $5,000 against $0.25, provided his property will bear insurance to the extent of $5,000, that his property will not be damaged to that extent for three years as the result of an air machine accident and agree to pay him any sum up to that amount to the extent of such damage as he may suffer.

In other words, the underwriters have recognized a situation which already exists, and will be more and more complicated each succeeding year as aviation is developed.

Is it not about time that there is legislative action to afford this protection at the expense of the owners of aircraft rather than at the cost of those who are exposed to a risk over which they haven't any possible control and for which they are in no way responsible?
Isn't it about time that there is legislation to bar the use of the air for flying purposes to any and all who are unable or unwilling to enter into some form of understanding which will guarantee redress for damage done by them?

Some cities have already taken action looking to the flying of aircraft over city limits excepting along fixed lanes. Is there not need of such legislation the land over, and with it the commissioning of air police to see that it is enforced?

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 10.—South America has an excellent record of arbitration of international disputes. In the last century there have been 27 major clashes over boundaries between various nations. Fifteen of these were settled arbitrarily. Most famous among such disputes was that between Chile and the Argentine Republic. After many bickerings and sharp collisions, the matter was referred to the King of England, Edward VII, and in 1893 he handed down an award which was peacefully accepted by both states and since has been adhered to. To commemorate that achievement there was erected at the Uspalata Pass, 14,000 feet up among the gigantic ranges of the mountain barrier, the Christ of the Andes, the world's most famous monument to peaceful settlement of international disputes—unless one may call the lives saved by recourse to such measures a living monument.

There have been many arbitrations and even what appeared to be settlements of the Bolivia-Paraguay boundary quarrel. In 1852, Paraguay, in fixing boundaries with Brazil on the north and Argentina on the south, assumed possession of the Chaco Boreal, the territory now in dispute, without so much as a "by your leave" to Bolivia. Both sides of the Paraguay river were claimed by the state of that name. Bolivia protested ardently. Then, in 1855, when the allies, Brazil, Uruguay, and Argentina, made war on Paraguay, they arbitrarily fixed new boundaries rather ignoring Paraguay but also to a large extent Bolivia. Argentina assumed the southern portion of the Chaco Boreal which marches with the Gran Chaco of Argentina. Again Bolivia protested. After the war of 1855-70 in the course of which Paraguay was nearly exterminated as a nation, the Argentine Republic made a fresh treaty with what was left of the former country. In this arrangement, too, Argentina was accorded territory claimed by Bolivia.

This time the matter was referred to Rutherford B.
Hayes, president of the United States, for arbitration.
The American president found in favor of Paraguay all around, extending the claims of that nation well out over the Chaco. To commemorate this kindly office, Paraguay established the town of Villa Hayes on territory claimed then and still claimed by Bolivia.

In 1924 a proposal to place the dispute before President Coolidge for another arbitration was put forward but proved abortive.

In April, 1927, Bolivia accepted the invitation of Argentina to arrange a conference with Paraguay. This resulted in the drawing of a protocol providing for a commission to sit at Buenos Aires to determine, once for all, the boundary line.

Then, coming down to date, Argentina came forward with a proposal to mediate. Last July both Paraguay and Bolivia accepted the offer in principle and meantime solemnly engaged to keep their hands off each other until something came of the mediation one way or another.

This agreement was in effect at the very moment when the Paraguayan force stormed the Bolivian outpost of Ft. Vanguarida and, presumably, still was technically in effect when Bolivia replied with a spirited raid on the Paraguayan redan at Ft. Boqueron.

It was this red hot issue which the Commission of Inquiry and Conciliation picked up at the bidding of the Pan American Conference on Arbitration and Conciliation last winter and has been trying to weld into such shape that it may cool off without frictional impairment.

One difficulty about agreement on boundaries is the character of the country itself. Chaco means prairie and this the Chaco Boreal essentially is, although throughout the vast expanse there are forests and broad savan-nahs which, in the wet season, are impassable fens.

There has been no substantial exploitation of the Chaco Boreal by either nation. Foreigners have done something in the way of establishing industries to can-beef or extract tannin from the quebracho trees which abound but the Bolivians and Paraguayans have done practically nothing. The only colonization scheme which has met with any success is one of a group of Canadian Mennonites, who have pitched their tents and laid their hearths in about the most warlike place to be found in the world.

The Chaco Boreal comes right down to the suburbs of Asuncion, the Paraguayan capital and the theater of any military action would be at its gates or near them. Bolivia would have to march 800 miles, a three weeks' journey through jungle, morass and plain.

Questions And Answers

By Frederic J. Haskin.

Q. In movie parlance what is meant by the terms
"dubbing up" and "dubbing up" pictures? A. T.

A. The sound pictures are developing a vocabulary of their own. It seems that scenario writers and photographers sometimes turn out scenes that "go over the heads" of average movie fans. So the picture is "dubbed up" by making the scenes and phraseology simple enough for any moron to understand "Dubbing up" a picture is the addition of sound features to old pictures.

Q. Please explain the letters and numbers on the wings of an airplane. D. S.

A. The letters on the wings of airplanes have the following significance: N is an international symbol which designates that the plane is from the United States; X designates that it is an experimental plane; C designates that it is a licensed plane. The numbers have no special significance aside from the fact that they show the number of registration of the plane.

Q. Can Tung oil be mixed with linseed oil for paint?
C. K. C.

A. China wood or Tung oil will mix with linseed oil, but unlike the latter, is seldom used raw in paints. Without paint factory facilities and special experience in the treatment of Tung oil, you could not properly treat it. Consequently, the Department of Agriculture says that it would not be advisable for you to attempt to use it.

Q. How is waterproof drawing ink made? R. H. S.
A. The Bureau of Standards says that waterproof drawing ink is a suspension of carbon black in water in which is dissolved shellac and borax. The following formula may be used: In 100 parts by weight of water dissolve by gentle heating 28 parts of orange shellac and 7 parts of borax. Let this cool and filter off the wax and sediment. The solution is colored, but this will not be noticeable in a thin film. Bleached shellac does not dissolve well unless freshly prepared.

Q. Who are the presidents of the National Benefit Life Insurance company and of the Victory Life Insurance company, two life insurance companies owned and managed by colored people? M. D.

A. R. H. Rutherford is the president and S. W. Rutherford is the general manager of the National Benefit, and Anthony Overton is president of the Victory Life Insurance company. These men are among the leaders of the negro race in business enterprise.

a cobweb design printed in blue on a pretty ones. Rosalie is wearing the lilac design in rose and green just now. Besides the printed designs there is another feature of sex appeal —the new skyscraper heel. The heels instead of the usual pointed or square designs are designed to resemble twin skyscrapers—one on each side

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

OAKLAND, Aug. 10.—Oakland is San Francisco's sister city across the bay. And just as Newark is often dwarfed by the nearness of New York, so is Oakland by San Francisco. Yet in many ways the city is one of the most remarkable in the entire nation.

It has thrift, ability and a so-called middle class charm that is unequaled. Forty-two per cent of its inhabitants own their own homes. The average earning of an industrial worker is $50 higher than the general United States average. Savings bank deposits are extraordinarily high.

The death rate for Oakland is six per cent less than the general average. There are no slums and only a handful of tenement dwellings. A working man who does not drive to work in his car is an oddity—almost a misfit. Coupled with all this, almost every worker is of American extraction.

Oakland is in a sort of bowl with industries at its base and the residential section hung picturesquely up on the hills. The higher up one goes the more exclusive. Every workingman's home is a well built bungalow with a garden on a tree lined street.

The city basked in a sort of man-ical lethargy until about ten years ago when it began suddenly to expand. In that time it has more than doubled its growth without reaching the proportions of a boom with subsequent deflation. It has 1,275 large industrial plants, says he, talking like a tourist folder.

I may be wrong but if I were an industrial worker I would keep an eye on Oakland. I have never visited a city where I was so impressed with the appearance of content among workers. They have, among so many other advantages, a panorama of natural beauty at their doorstep.

Lake Tahoe, Yosemite, the Big Tree Groves and the Monterey peninsula are within easy drive. Nearer are the home of Joaquin Miller, the Skyline boulevard, which Baccarat calls the third most beautiful drive in the world, the Carquinez Bridge, largest highway construction, and hosts of other eye filling charms.

In New York where one hails a taxi to cross the street, hailing parties are something out of the ordinary. Every week end groups of them with backpacks start out to explore the many lost trails and this footpaths winding through the hills back of the city.

Frankness compels an admission San Francisco and Oakland lack the civic cheering so characteristic of Los Angeles. There seems to be no boosting whatever. Still it cannot be said shouting has stunted the Los Angeles growth. It is an old theory hawking children grow fast. Los Angeles bears it out.

One is transported to Oakland chiefly by ferry. A ferry ride is about the only romantic old mode of travel that survives. Across San Francisco bay it is extremely alluring. I crossed four times just for the ride.

Along a roadside about 50 miles from Oakland is a sign heralding an O. O. McIntyre as a tree surgeon. We have always had a feeling there must be a professor somewhere in our illiterate family.

On the west coast this trip—not in Oakland, and I won't say where and be shot for treason—I took an earthquake on the chin standing up. All the wall pictures and the doodads on the dressing table began to Charleston A hotel servant coming in later remarked: "Did you feel the tremble?" In-dentally, if you want to experience the sensation of utter futility play around with "a tremble." But to be fair they are mild and far between and do not do half the damage of our Eastern electrical storms.

I still think the best earthquake story is the one told on a Los Angeles newspaper. When its near neighbor Santa Barbara was hit by a quake, the Los Angeles sheet is said to have rushed to the streets with an eight column head reading: "Earthquake Hits Santa Barbara 450 Miles From San Francisco."

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

Vacations are joyful periods, but they may be dangerous, too. Watch two dangers after Labor day and see what numbers of typhoid fever cases develop. The home water supplies are properly supervised, but wayside springs and streams may be teeming with the germs of disease. Vacation-ists are careless and some of them will pick up typhoid.

Years ago the well-to-do residents of districts where malaria abounded, used to go to the seashore or the mountains at the season when it prevailed. They did this to escape the "miasma," the poisoned air, which they believed was responsible for the disease.

When I was a boy they knew that the swamps and low lands were dangerous. But they didn't know the real reason. In my boyhood, I heard a famous physician say that the "malaria" air "cannot rise above 50 feet. He advised building homes on elevated spots so to escape malaria.

Now we know that it is the mosquito, a certain type of mosquito that carries malaria. The ancient recognized that marsh lands bred the disease, but overlooked the fact that the mosquitoes which breed there are the real offenders.

A person who has the parasites of malaria in his blood, is bitten by a mosquito. The organisms are taken into the body of the mosquito. Certain changes take place, preparing the poison so it will thrive in the salivary glands of the insect. This process takes a couple of weeks.

The inoculated mosquito is now prepared to pass on to well human beings. The organisms which have developed in the manner I have explained. This insect bites its unfortunate victim. A portion of the infected saliva is injected into the skin.

The organisms which are introduced into the body attack the red corpuscles of the blood. Here new organisms develop and poisons are generated. It is not long before the corpuscles are destroyed. Then the young parasites and the poisons get into the blood stream. A violent chill is the first sign of trouble.

The infected person is now ready to act as a carrier, to inoculate other mosquitoes. They pass it on to their human neighbors and pretty soon the entire community has malaria.

We have learned how to escape malaria. By draining the swamps and screening our homes we do not get anybody else's malaria. Likewise if one of us happens to be a carrier of malaria, the mosquitoes are not there to pass it on to others of the family or in the neighborhood.

Malaria is practically unknown today in well-ordered communities.
Each of us must do his part to wipe out the breeding places of an insect that can do great harm if inoculated with the organisms of the disease.

The Unchanging Soviet.

It is to be hoped that Senator Borah and other well-meaning advocates of American recognition of Russia are not confining their reading of the news from London to daily developments in the naval limitation situation. During the past few days the negotiations for resumption of Anglo-Russian diplomatic relations have been broken off.
With every desire to reinitiate the official ties which the previous Labor government effected, Foreign Secretary Henderson had to admit that Moscow presents a snag on which London's plans have been abruptly wrecked.

Russia was informed that the price of the soviet's readmission to British favor was two-fold:

1.—A guarantee that Russian debts to foreign governments were recognized and would be paid, and 2.—A pledge that Communist propaganda in British territory would cease.

Russia's response to these demands was a flat refusal to discuss them until after diplomatic recognition was accorded. Thereupon Downing Street notified the Kremlin that their discussions could not proceed.

It is not surprising that the Macdonald government is unwilling to fraternize with the soviet again on the sight-unseen system. The Labor premier has not forgotten that his preceding term of office was brought to an untimely end, five years ago, after the discovery that Communist Russia was grossly abusing the privileges which diplomatic recognition by Great Britain had allowed it. The Labor statesmen now intruded in power do not intend to be hoist by the same petard a second time. A burnt cabinet like a singed child fears the fire.

WALL STREET STORY AT STATE

Wall Street activities motivate The Gambler, the newest Warner Bros. Vitaphone all-talking production coming to the State theater on Monday. Practically all of its important characters are connected with the Emerson Trust Company, a great financial organization which owns a 10-story building before which the city market operates each day.

The two characters not associated with the Emerson trust, nevertheless, have a most important place in its activities, since one is a government prosecutor in the attorney general's department, and the other, his wife, is a former sweetheart of the man who is the active head of the financial company. These three roles are played, respectively, by H. B. Warner, Lois Wilson and Jason Robards, while other members of the all-star cast are George Fawcett, Johnny Arthur, Frank Campeau, Pauline Garon and Charles Sellon.

ADOLPHE MENJOU ON CERAMIC BILL

Adolphe Menjou—elegant, sophisticated, faultlessly dressed—adds a new note of perfection to his screen personality in his first all-talking motion picture appearance. Menjou has a rich baritone and he sings one of Victor Schertzinger's new song hits, "Delphine," in "Fashions in Love," which will open a three-day run at the Ceramic theater Monday.

Menjou's host of fans have waited patiently since the advent of talking pictures for this opportunity to hear the Menjou voice. And they will not be disappointed. Menjou is said to have one of the most charming of all the voices discovered since motion pictures became audible.

In "Fashions in Love," Menjou has the role of a famous concert pianist whose music charms audiences and whose personality charms ladies' hearts. He is superb in this role which embodies all the light humorous twists which Menjou does so well. The play itself is from the famous stage drama by Hermann Bahr, "Fashions in Love" brings that "different" Menjou note to talking pictures. It is smart comedy, the dialogue is beautifully adapted to the sophisticated action, the settings are exceptionally interesting and the plot is fast-moving and highly amusing.

"NOAH'S ARK" HIT AT AMERICAN

"Noah's Ark," the Warner Bros. production, heralded as having been "made to top any picture ever made," comes to the American theater Monday for a run of one week. The stupendous production includes more than ten thousand characters. Sets covering more than a square mile were used in the making—a period of three years.

Darryl Francis Zanuck wrote the story and Michael Curtiz, internationally famed as the producer of spectacles of vast proportions, directed Dolores Costello. It is starred with George O'Brien. Other prominent members of the cast are Noah Berry, Louise Fazenda, Quinn Williams, Paul McAllister, Nigel de Brulier, Anders Randolf, Armand Kaliz, Myrna Loy, William Johnson, Otto Hoffman and Joe Bonomo.

"Noah's Ark," mighty in conception, portrays life at the ends of the rainbow-span of the fifty centuries. The lovers, whose glamorous personalities survive the soul-stirring days of the World War, are transported back across the centuries, to the iniquitous days preceding the Flood.

Possibilities of the screen are vindicated as never before by the magnificent sweep of the story—the manifold scenes of tumult—war—slavery—flood—terror—birth and by the human element, and never has interpretative direction been provided as that which commands the ever-changing scenes of "Noah's Ark."

The choice of Dolores Costello and George O'Brien to play the parts of the lovers was in itself a stroke of genius. Paul McAllister is magnificent as the patriarch, Noah—and all the actors are perfectly cast.

The theme of the play is the changelessness of the heart of humanity—whether in the modern life that we know—or in the traditional past. Tremendous as is the idea of the play, the human story which runs through it is compelling intimate and tender.

To the Voters of East Liverpool

Allen (Al) Burrows

Makes This Statement of His Candidacy for Mayor

The mayor is the chief executive of East Liverpool. It is his business to see that laws and ordinances on the statute books are enforced and carried out. He is not the maker of the laws which he has to do. They have been made by Congress, the State legislature and the city council.

The mayor therefore cannot pick out a single law or statute to enforce or reject or more which he may overlook. His oath demands that he cannot be a respecter of one or few laws. He, if true to his oath, must see to it that all of them are carried out.

In a wider sense the mayor must for East Liverpool have ever in mind the general good of the city. As does the president for the nation, and the governor for the state he, through his allied aids and the city's legislative body, the council, must develop a policy or policies that will contribute to this end.

He, like the president for the country, must also qualify as a symbol of the city. For his term of office he must particularly represent the city as its chief, and be ever ready to assist and promote its betterment.

The office therefore should be taken seriously by its incumbent. The way it is filled will go far in giving the city distinction and a relative place among its sister communities.

One way to develop and boost the city, and an ever important way, is to place a man in the position who can bring to the place such a standing. This can be done only by devoting his full time to the office.

Mindful of its requirements, I am a Candidate for Mayor, realizing that which is demanded of the city's chief executive. I would serve the city by thus serving the people.

NOT HOW MUCH but HOW MUCH SATISFACTION

Two thoroughly practical considerations will surely draw you toward Oldsmobile—price and value. For high quality at low price is the fundamental reason for Oldsmobile's constantly growing success. But even price and value are overshadowed by the complete and lasting satisfaction that comes with Oldsmobile ownership.

Consider the price—only $875 for the two-door sedan. Compare what Oldsmobile offers you with what other cars offer. You will discover that it is doubtful economy to pay less than Oldsmobile's price... and unnecessary to pay more. For a car of lesser price will never bring you all that Oldsmobile offers... and you'll have to pay more than Oldsmobile's price to obtain the same fine qualities in another car.

Oldsmobile's big 62-horsepower high-compression engine provides ample power for every emergency—acceleration to take you out front when the signal light changes—speed to keep you there.

Exceptional provisions for durability and dependability are evident in every detail of chassis construction. A low center of gravity combined with balanced weight gives uncanny roadability. Four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers assure restful riding ease.

Examine the features of Oldsmobile's Fisher bodies. Test the wide, deep-cushioned seats. Note the glove-like fit of the soft upholstery fabrics—the luxurious quality of the materials used. Try the new comfort of the Fisher adjustable front seat.

Come and inspect this car. Drive it yourself. Compare its features with other cars. And when you have compared its price, and considered its value—keeping in mind that Oldsmobile stands high by a dollar-for-dollar measure... remember it stands even higher in the test of owner satisfaction.

1,500 PERSONS
HEAR BEATTYDemocrat Flays Council And Lauds Business Men.

New industries for East Liverpool were promised by James C. B. Beatty, pottery salesman, seeking the Democratic majority place, in a speech before 1,500 or more persons last night in front of the Carnegie library.

He urged a tax of $1 on poles; flayed city council for spending $60,000 in a water line extension to 30 houses; lauded C. A. Smith, Frank Crook, Peter Milliron, Jacob Stein and John J. Parinotto as men who had "erected monuments to themselves for progressiveness," and declared the street car company is paying $15,000 a year in taxes—50 cents for every car which passes through your business district.

"Motor buses pay no taxes and are destroying one of the community's biggest assets," he added. He recommended the employment to a plumbing inspector, urged that the sidewalks in Broadway be narrowed and that parking space for automobiles be provided in the center of the street.

Mahoney Visits Russia

high interval," he said. "There have been acute suffering at times by reason of floods destroying crops but always there has been for organized and working industrialists there an equal distribution of the grain and food at hand. Profiteering is not permitted."

Industrial organization has reached an advanced state in Russia, Mahoney declared. In that 95 per cent of the industrialists are members of unions. Woodmen and gold diggers in the mountain fastnesses can not readily be reached by organizers, he said.

Two weeks' vacation with payment to expenses is given all those allied with unions who show disposition to work regularly, he explained. In this manner workmen are attaining a high degree of intelligence, he explained.

Meets Soviet Chief Stalin.

He said that the people generally in Russia were acclimated in their activities for the most part, with residents of Moscow and Petrograd given almost entirely to industrialism. Moscow is almost entirely a textile center and very much resembles cities in New England and certain parts of New Jersey, while Petrograd is a veritable steel city much like Pittsburgh, Pa., and Youngstown, Ohio, he said.

Russia is now known there as the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics which consists of between 20 and 30 sections or states in which some 60 dialects are spoken, Mahoney indicated.

He was permitted to meet and speak with Stalin, who is head of the government, he having succeeded to the position formerly held by the late Lenin and the exiled Trotsky. "The latter was a finished orator, one who could arouse the masses and drive easily his points home," Mahoney observed. "Lenin, whom I never saw alive captivates in his writings by his profundity of expression. Stalin is ever deliberative in his words and manner. He is usually always smoking a pipe and is rather a small man in stature."

Sees Body of Lenin.

Mahoney attended the great celebration in Moscow last year which marked the eleventh anniversary of the revolution by which the monarchial regime was overthrown and the long reign of the czars brought to an end. "There were more than a million people in what is known as the Red Square where six streets intersect and in the center of which the tomb of Lenin has been erected," he said. "Enclosed in glass his body is ever exposed to public view and is daily the mecca of many of the country's residents. There is room for speaker to make addresses to the populace from the tomb and there such are made on various occasions."

He declared that the body of Lenin is well preserved.

Masters Russian Language.

The cold was intense, some 40 degrees below zero at the place where Mahoney was located. The first winter that he was there he suffered from the frigidities. He averred that he perhaps made the mistake of taking the Russian bath which consisted of additional heat much like a Turkish bath. Such departures caused him to be ill for a time. During his final winter there he decided to toughen himself for the weather conditions and did so by taking cold baths.

"No socks for the feet are worn during the cold months by the people there," he said. "They wrap the feet and legs in a winding fashion which is found to be a much better way to maintain heat in the body."

Mahoney learned to speak Russian fluently. "I had to in order to get food," he explained. He said that he had no great difficulty in mastering the language. He had previously studied Italian and before that Latin when a student in school. "Russian words are pronounced just as they are spelled," he said. "One does not have to learn some of the pronunciations as is necessary in many English words."

Members of Czar's Family Dead.

He gave it as his opinion that all of the members of the czar's family "were removed from the scene of action" in the Russian revolution. He does not think the young woman claiming to be one of the daughters of the royal family and now living in New York City with new-found friends is one of the surviving children of the ill-fated czar and crarina.

No person that came in contact with him admitted that he had seen Rasputin, the reputed prophet and controller of the destinies of Russia by reason of his powerful hold on the royal couple and who himself was finally slain.

"Workmen in Russia are not the ignorant persons the world has been led to believe," Mahoney averred. "Indeed, I should be glad to find many mayors of American cities who have the same intelligence of workmen there with whom I came in contact."

Such a situation here would be a good thing for this country."

He said that in the district in which he labored the Asiatic type of architecture obtained for the most part. This consists of walls that are often three feet thick, it being the belief that such thickness is necessary to keep out the intense cold in the winter season. "We could hardly impress them with the viewpoint that a wall of few bricks with a vacuum of tile would be more conducive of heat," he said. "In the cities, however, there are buildings now constructed that are as modern as those in the United States."

Mahoney quit the East Liverpool high school in his junior year in 1911 when he went to work. He continued his technical education in schools in Chicago.

As a student he has garnered a great deal of information upon which he has deduced ideas in keeping with his studies. In his local school period he was actively engaged as a baseball and football player.

Spoke in Armenian Capital.

During his stay abroad he visited Armenia, and in its capital, Mahoney addressed 80,000 persons who assembled in a compact audience in a park which is situated in the center of the city. His theme was "Conditions in America and Other Capitalistic Countries."

He saw also Mt. Ararat in Soviet Armenia on which Noah's ark rested following the flood. "There are two Mt. Ararats," he disclosed, "one big and the other little. On the latter is snow the entire year. It was on the latter section or peak on which the event mentioned in Genesis occurred."

He visited the famed winter palace in which the czars of Russia lived. Of it he said: "It is impossible to describe the magnificence of that place."

The largest bell in the world is situated in Moscow. He saw it and heard the ringing of other bells of which the city is famous. "There are about 12 colored persons in Moscow, a city of some 5,000,000 inhabitants," he said. "One of these, an old woman by name, was a former American actress who became stranded on a trip long ago in Russia. She can now speak the Russian tongue fluently."

The great temple which Ivan the Terrible caused to be built in Russia was another of the structures that appealed to him, as well as the cathedral in Cologne, Germany.

Mahoney is of the opinion that Berlin is the most beautiful city in which he visited abroad. He remained but two days en route to Russia in London and the fog was so constant there that he saw but little of it.

In Baku, Russia, he lived for a period in a six or seven story hotel in which the former owner was the cook following confiscation of the property by the government.

Russians Theater-goers.

He said that the Russian people are the most theatrical-loving in all the world. "The theaters are crowded constantly," he declared, "and all of the people of the cities are out on the streets at nights. They carry musical instruments and play them while many dance on the thoroughfares. The rivers are filled with craft of all kinds in which people are riding. They play as the boats move about. It all seems like a water carnival."

"The people are out also in the winter as well. Then they skate on the deeply frozen rivers. Ever there is a spirit of merriment about. It is all a Mecca of music. I have been lost since coming back to America by the marked difference of people in their manner of living and enjoying themselves."

"Workmen, he concluded, "have attained a high degree of efficiency under Soviet government rule. In a sewing machine factory formerly owned by the Singer Sewing Machine corporation, I worked for a month in order to observe conditions in it and there found that the workers working for themselves as they do under the present or new regime, conducted themselves as efficiently as they do in capitalistic countries."

"In relation to education, science and general social and industrial conditions, the situation in Russia now far exceeds that which formerly obtained during the rule of the Romanoffs."

Mahoney describes himself a communist a believer in the progressive evolutionary steps of the human race. This belief, he says, was brought about by a close study of historical and social forces.

He was a member of a party composed of Englishmen, Germans, French and Italians who made the trip and stay in Russia in order to study and learn conditions under the Soviet government.

COMPARE the delivered price as well as the list price in considering automobile values. Chevrolet's delivered prices include only reasonable charges for delivery and financing.

Less than eight months have elapsed since the first Chevrolet Six was delivered into the hands of an owner—and already there are more than a million six-cylinder Chevrolets on the road! And the reasons for this overwhelming success are easy to understand.

Into a price field that had hitherto been occupied exclusively by four-cylinder cars—Chevrolet has introduced a six-cylinder car of amazing quality and value. Not only does it offer the smooth, quiet, velvety performance of a great six-cylinder valve-in-head motor—but, from every standpoint, it is a finer automobile than was ever before thought possible at such low prices!

Its beautiful new bodies—which are available in a variety of colors—represent one of Fisher's greatest style triumphs. And its safety and handling ease are so outstanding that it's a sheer delight to sit at the wheel and drive. In fact, the new Chevrolet Six has completely changed every previous idea as to what the buyer of a low-priced car has a right to expect for his money.

You owe it to yourself, as a careful buyer, to see and drive this car. For it gives you every advantage of a fine six-cylinder automobile—in the price range of the four and with economy of better than 20 miles to the gallon! Come in today!

The Chevrolet Motor Company will present a special radio program Wednesday, August 14, over the Columbia network, 8 to 8:30 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, celebrating the millionth Six-Cylinder Chevrolet delivered in less than 8 months' time.

MACKS AND CUBS BEGIN WEST AND EAST TOURS

No Signs Of Strain in Chicago

Philadelphia Opens in Detroit; Bruins go To Boston.

By HENRY McEMORE.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Aug. 10.—Now is the time for the Athletics and Cubs to come to the aid of quite a few experts.

For today the Macks begin a tour through the west while the Cubs set down to a tour through the east—the same tours that those who profess to know, predicted would mean nothing short of ruin to the two leaders.

Philadelphia opens in Detroit. Chicago, following a one-day stand in Philly, opens in Boston.

Maybe Athletics are tired.

Maybe the Macks are tired to death and ready to be bumped. Maybe the Bruins are ready to crack under the strain of such a fast pace as they have been getting of late, maybe.

But McCarthy's outfit showed little signs of collapse yesterday as they waited through the Phillies to a 12-6 win. Their siege guns are still working. Hornsby and Stephenson getting home runs and driving in four runs each.

Freddie Fitzsimmons still has the Reds under control. The portly Giant flinger whipped them again, this time 7 to 1. He allowed only four hits.

Cards Meet for Pirates.

Stacking the Cards is the Pirates' favorite outdoor amusement. Yesterday's 7-6 win was the twelfth successive triumph over the Cards scored by Pittsburgh.

In the only game scheduled in the American, St. Louis pounded Ted Lyons hard to down Chicago.

The Yanks spent the day losing an exhibition affair to Albany, but the fans went home happy for Mr. Ruth slammed one of his specialties over the wall.

Philadelphia had better luck, easing out a 3-2 victory over Toledo, thanks to young Fox's homer.

Inter-City League

Five games are scheduled in the Inter-City league next week. Homer Laughlin, second half leaders, and Wellsville, runner-up, will clash at Newell Tuesday night.

Next Week's Schedule.
Monday—K. T. K. at Chester.
Tuesday—Wellsville at Newell.

Miss Wills and Miss Jacobs, Carrying American Colors, Set Fast Pace at Forest Hills.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—This ought to be quite a day for the 300 centers who want America for Americans and England for the the ashmen.

The finals of the Wightman Cup-series between the women of the two countries will be played this afternoon at Forest Hills, and, while America still can lose, it probably won't. It finished the opening day with a lead of 2 to 1 and with its two winners, the famous Helens of Berkeley—Wills and Jacobs—coming back for more this afternoon, the result would seem to be ordained, if not pre-destined or something else.

The unbeatable Miss Wills will take her imperturbable countenance out on the courts to face Miss Betty Nuthall in one of the singles; Miss Jacobs will play Mrs. Phoebe Watson in another and the third and last will couple Miss Edith Cross, the last of the Californians, with Mrs. Peggy Saunders Mitchell.

Since Miss Wills is to play the lady whom Miss Jacobs defeated yesterday and Miss Jacobs is playing the lady whom Miss Wills defeated yesterday, it is difficult to see how America can go wrong in two of these matches. But in case she does, she still has the final doubles in which to pull out a team victory that means the "rubber" decision in the series, which at present stands at 3

"BIG GAME"

Story of a girl who thought love more powerful than society.

By Vida Hurst

With an effort Mona controlled her voice. "Of course you don't, Mabel. That isn't the point at all. It's just that I hate to have Bruce think you care." "I don't know why," Mabel insisted stubbornly. "I don't see why what Bruce thinks should bother you at all. He didn't take it half as hard as you are and as I said before he'll soon forget. Meantime, it has served my purpose."

As she gazed across at the mirrored surface of the lake her face softened.

"The idea of us quarrelling about a silly thing like this. I supposed of course you understood. Mona, I even thought you'd think it was clever of me." "I do understand," Mona said, slowly. "And I don't want to quarrel. But I warn you, Mabel, from now on I'm going to be as nice as I can to Bruce."

Mabel cried, "Don't you dare tell Bruce about it. If you do I'll never forgive you."

"I have no intention of confessing your sins to your husband, Mabel. Your methods of obtaining what you want are strictly up to you. Only in the future please, be good enough to leave me out of it."

Ruth suggested another cup of tea apiece. And before Bruce returned they had all parted amicably.

But Mona was deeply, unreasonably, hurt. To think that without even the excuse of jealousy, her innocent friendship with Bruce should have been sacrificed.

So that Mabel might live in an apartment they all knew Bruce could not afford.

From that time her manner towards him held a deliberate sweetness, which bewildered the recipient, and greatly amused his wife. For Mabel had told the truth when she had said she was really not at all jealous.

It was two weeks later that Mona found a caller waiting at her father's home. Annie told her as she stepped in the kitchen after putting the car in the garage.

"Who is it, Annie?"

"Ellen didn't know. She wouldn't give her name." Anticipating some friend she had known at school, Mona hurried into the hall. Ellen had deposited the visitor on a bench near the stairway. When Mona saw who it was she understood why. And she recognized her instantly.

"You wished to see me?" she asked, unbelievably. Joshua Darien's little friend looked over one shoulder, suspiciously.

"That's what I told her. Otherwise I might not have gotten in. She's probably had her orders as they have at his office."

Mona hesitated, uncertain as to what attitude to take. Altho trained in boarding school for any social emergency, entertaining the dancing partners of one's father had not been included. But she was not undecided for long.

"Won't you come into the living room? It's much more comfortable there."

The girl seemed different. Perhaps because she was now entirely sober. With eyes as blue as Mona's own, she stared about the fantastic old room. Crying out like a child at sight of the parrot.

"Oh, isn't he cute? Will he talk?"

"Talk for the lady, Teddy," Mona commanded. Teddy squawked, obediently. "Act your age, big boy!"

The "lady" was delighted.

"I can't feature Joshua Darien having a bird like that in his home!"

"Teddy isn't my father's," Mona explained, seriously. "He belongs to me."

She seated herself on the davenport and was conscious of an uneasy sympathy for the thin little thing across from her. The shallow pointed face was more pinched and hungry-looking than it was vicious. The rouge stood up in spots as if there was no color whatever in the flesh beneath. Her fingers contract nervously.

"My name is Rosalie Watson," she said. "I don't suppose you've heard of me."

Mona replied, gently. For some reason it seemed impossible for her to take the superior tone that the occasion probably demanded. After all this was only another girl. A much less fortunate girl as her glance around the room clearly indicated.

"Gee, it must be swell to live in a place like this."

"Oh, I don't know. I've often thought it would be more fun to live with a big family in a couple of rooms."

"Fun!" the other cried, honestly shocked. "There's nothing funny about that!"

"Do you live in Minneapolis?" Mona asked, politely.

"Oh, no. I ran away as soon as I was old enough to get a job."

"What do you do?"

A shadow crossed Rosalie's face.

"I'm not doing anything. That's the reason I have to see your father. He promised to get me something."

"In his office?"

Rosalie crossed her knee, exposing rose-colored garters.

"I did work in his office for awhile," she said, nervously. "Then some of the girls got to talking and he said it wouldn't look well for him to keep me there. But he promised," she added, carefully, "to get me another place."

"And hasn't he?" Mona inquired.

The blue eyes facing her filled with tears.

"No, he certainly hasn't. When I call the office he won't even talk to me. Oh, I know what's the matter. He's been wanting to get rid of me for a long time. But I can't live on nothing."

"Excuse me, Miss Darien, it's not that I have anything against your father, only it's his fault that I lost my job, and now he's got to do something for me."

Mona rose, feeling suddenly ill.

"I'm sorry, but there really isn't anything I can do about it. You see, I haven't any influence whatever."

"I thought you being his daughter and so near my age."

"That wouldn't carry any weight with father," Mona asserted, bitterly. "I think you'd better go now, Miss Watson. He will be awfully angry if he should find you here."

"I don't care if he's angry," Rosalie declared, wildly. "He's got to keep his promise."

"But he may not be home before midnight. He rarely comes until after dinner."

Rosalie began to cry, wringing her thin hands.

"I don't know what I'm going to do. I've got to get a job."

"I can let you have a little money," Mona suggested, timidly, afraid of offending her.

"How much? Can you let me have five dollars?"

Mona opened her pocketbook.

"Here's a ten-dollar bill!"

The rapidity with which she stuffed that bill into her flat purse frightened Mona. She had never seen a human being who roused in the same moment so much compassion and so much disgust. But Rosalie was now making preparations to leave. She opened a vanity case and applied another layer of heavily scented powder.

"You tell him I was here, will you?" she directed, quite in the manner of one completing a purely social call. "And tell him I said the next time I'll wait until I see him."

The money in her pocketbook had revived her like a glass of wine. Mona shivered, feeling her now not so much in connection with her father as a miserable, little, human being. Fighting for her rights! How terrible to have to depend for those rights on the generosity of Joshua Darien!

And what a scene there was going to be! For a moment Mona considered failing to mention the incident. But in that case Rosalie would undoubtedly return. Mona didn't want to see her again. In some vague, sickening way she felt to blame for some of the other girl's misery.

Girls like that hadn't a chance. Particularly with men like Joshua Darien. Yet his daughter was going to be forced to plead for Rosalie.

When dinner was served she found herself unable to swallow.

She was lying face down on her bed when Ellen summoned her to the telephone...

Outstanding, by Any Measure of Value

BECAUSE it represents our earnest endeavor to give you more than an average dollar's worth of real value for every dollar invested — we ask you to make a critical inspection of Model 612 before selecting any car in or near its price class.

Lift the hood and see the big 62 horsepower motor with a seven-bearing crankshaft. Not only in the motor, but all through the 612 (which weighs 3,125 pounds, ready for the road) you will find extra size, extra weight, and extra strength. Experience has convinced us that every pound of this greater weight is essential to fine performance, comfort, long life and safety.

The four wheel hydraulic, internal expanding brakes are larger than usual in a car at this price, and fully protected from dirt and water. Service and emergency brakes are entirely separate—to provide the safety to which we believe every motor car buyer is entitled.
